

replied, "Why, a Scotchman."

The Englishman then asked the question of the Scotchman who replied, "Why, I would be an Englishman."

Thinking they would annoy the Irishman, they asked him, "If you were not an Irishman, what would you be?"

The Irishman said, "I would be ashamed of myself."

We expect the Martins to move into Mother's house today. She is quite cheered by the prospect.

Have you seen Mrs. Slippy since you returned to Wyo? I suppose she is selling potato chips and salted peanuts now. Should you